Reduction in STD rates

775. PROF. M. SANKARALINGAM: Will the Minister of COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact the Government have reduced the rates of STD by around 60 per cent on 14th January, 2002 and whether this has improved the tariff and revenue in the telecom sector in many manner,

(b) if so, the details thereof;

(c) whether Government are monitoring the fastest growing telecom markets in the world to be in the league with them; and

(d) if so, the details thereof?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY (SHRITAPAN SIKDAR): (a) and (b) Yes, Sir. Although the traffic has increased by about 25 percent after the reduction in STD rates, there has been a decrease by about 20 percent in the long distance metered call units as per sample study conducted in the month of February, 2002. The long distance metered call units are expected to increase in the coming months with the change in the subscribes calling habits. It is too early to assess the effects of reduction in rates of STD on the revenue in the telecom sector.

(c) and (d) Yes, Sir. The telecom sector has been opened up for private sector participation to bring competition in this sector. This will result into better quality service at competitive rates as well as faster growth in the telecom sector.
